

March 2024

Dear Friends,

As Holy Week approaches we think of Jesus' journey to Jerusalem: the turning over of the tables in the Temple, his teaching there, the last supper he shared with his disciples, his betrayal, arrest and crucifixion.

As this week approaches I think about Jesus:

- What did he think about?
- Was he pressured by time constraints?
- What did he think and feel about the injustices he saw in the Temple?
- Was he sorrowful as he shared the last meal he would have with his friends?
- How scared and terrified was he in the garden?
- How did he deal with his pain and anguish?

His resolution to be obedient to God was absolute, and his fortitude, courage and compassion utterly evident in his words from the cross.

Once more, I am encouraged to do my best for Jesus, even when I fail.

How about you?

You too are loved by Jesus.

Bless you in your reflections
